These are the People in your Neighborhood By Melly Crismond

Spotlight on Paula Lin and The Definitive Voice

Have you ever seen a movie trailer that was so awesome you could close your eyes and still be excited about the film just by listening to the voice over narration? That's the work of a truly great voice talent. This combination of a naturally fantastic voice with hard work and preparation can elevate something as simple as a movie trailer to a work of art. So how does a person get into this line of work and how can regular people like us benefit from using professional voice talent in our business? That's the kind of information that King Farm resident, Paula Lin, wants to share with you.

Paula entered the world of professional voice work after being told by countless friends and colleagues that she had a great phone voice. Deciding to see where this talent could take her, Paula enrolled in the Connecticut School of Broadcasting and learned all she could about the business. After graduating, she became a fulltime on-air radio news personality in Connecticut in 1987 and then moved on to voice the radio news in the business's biggest market - the New York tri-state area. From there Paula moved to Atlanta where she landed a job during the Gulf War producing and voicing news segments for CNN radio. She also voiced sports and entertainment minutes for CNN, so her experience really broadened. While Paula loved the challenging work at CNN, she really wanted the freedom to work for herself and to help others so when she moved to Maryland she started her own business, The Definitive Voice, and that's where her neighbors come in to the story.

The Definitive Voice (www.thedefinitivevoice.com) can help you with pretty much any voice over need you may have. For radio, television and other media companies this means voice over narration work. But just because you're not in the entertainment or news business, doesn't mean that The Definitive Voice isn't for you. Voice over work isn't all just the glamorous stuff. Paula's company can also assist you with phone system greetings and prompts, voicing online programs, promos and courses, and writing, producing and voicing corporate training or sales videos. Having a professional voice on these kind of materials can really upgrade your business and make a big impression on the clients and vendors that you work with.

The other service that Paula can provide is coaching and mentoring for people interesting in trying to establish them selves as voice over talent. If, like Paula, people have told you that you have a great voice but you haven't known how to use your talent, look no further. The Definitive Voice will give you honest feedback on your talent and help you develop it. With the help of The Definitive Voice, some natural talent and your own strong work ethic, one day you should be able to hear yourself on the air!

Here to serve you vocally and locally, the woman behind the voice, King Farm's own Paula Lin.

So, as Paula herself puts it, if you "need a voice- then rejoice! The Definitive Voice is here to serve you Vocally and Locally!" Here's a formula Paula feels is the best advice for King Farm neighbors:

Enthusiasm + Persistence + Faith = SUCCESS!

Paula adores her work and being part of the King Farm community. She's all about working hard, helping others and always remembering to "pay it forward." So if you think there's something that The Definitive Voice can do for you, don't hesitate to contact her at paulalin2@aol.com.

Paula Lin is just one of the many great business owners and neighbors in King Farm. We'll be spotlighting someone different each month so if you own a neighborhood or home-based business and want to be spotlighted or if you use the services of someone else's business in King Farm, please email us at chronicle@kingfarm.org.

Paula's company can also assist you with phone system greetings and prompts, voicing online programs, promos and courses, and writing, producing and voicing corporate training or sales videos.

Doctor Lisa Long was a medical doctor in China. She is a licensed Acupuncturist in DC and MD. She graduated from JingHua Medical University in China in 1991 and worked as an internal physician in the Beijing University of Chinese Medicine teaching hospital. Since Chinese medicine is used very much in conjunction with the western medicine in taking care of health problems in China, she built up a solid foundation in her early practice years. In addition, she studied and practiced acupuncture and herbal medicine in same hospital with Doctor Jiasan Yang, chairperson of the Acupuncture Department and well known lecturer in China.

Since coming to the United States, Dr. Lisa has worked as a research fellow at University of Kentucky Medical Center Department of Anesthesiology , for a number of years. At the same time, she also practiced acupuncture and herbal medicine in Chinese Medicine Center at KY . She started full time acupuncture practice in DC area since 1997 with a world-renowned acupuncturist and herbalist (Dr.Jing N Wu), Because Doctor Lisa's background in both western and eastern medicine, it gives her a better opportunity to integrate the east to the west.

My education includes a total of six years studying acupuncture and massage at Jin Hua medical University in Beijing, China, I later graduate studies at Damin Beauty School, also in Beijing, China. In the last several years, I have had the opportunity to work with a world-renowned acupuncturist and herbalist (Dr.Jing n Wu), here in DC We are presently developing an young rejuvenation clinic in a Georgetown and a local department store. In this clinic, I will be using herbs externally for personalized skincare (facials). Other modalities offered will be acupressure, deep tissue massage and reflexology treatment.

Previously, I was employed by the Anesthesiology Department of University of Kentucky for two years. There I performed acupuncture for anesthesia and pain management. In China, my work experiences included manager of JinTai Hotel Health Center, and acupuncture physician and masseuse at the Chinese medical hospital, Beijing University of T.C.M.

Dear Mayor and Council,

Please accept my application for membership on the Asian Pacific American Task Force.
I would be happy to speak with each of you about my interest.

Kindest regards,

Summary of Work Experience: Federal Government Budget Analyst since 1984 at the Office of Management and Budget, Executive Office of the President. (See attached resume for description.)

Experience: See attached resume for a description of my many interactions with Asian (principally Chinese) groups. I would also note that I am married to a Chinese immigrant and speak a little Mandarin.

Education/Training: MA/BA in Political Science, University of Delaware

Volunteer Activities: Volunteer for Community Tax Aid at the Chinese Church in D.C. (2001-2006). Prepared income tax returns for low-income Chinese immigrants.

Professional Affiliations/Memberships: Member of the Yellow River Arts Ensemble, a group of local Chinese artists who perform song and dance at performances in the region. In 2004, I arranged for the Ensemble to perform at the Asian Pacific American Celebration for the Executive Office of the President.

Please describe your interest in serving on this Board/Commission: Because my wife is Chinese and because of my involvement over many years with various Chinese groups, I am particularly interested in increasing the civic involvement of Asian Americans and in sharing their cultures with non-Asians. Many of these folks come from countries with authoritarian governments, so they are understandably reticent to participate in our political system. We could help by reaching out and inviting them to participate. We all would benefit by learning about and sharing their very interesting cultures and traditions. For example, there are numerous groups of Chinese American artists who regularly perform for primarily Chinese audiences in the region. If we could make Rockville the center for these performances, it would add greatly to cultural opportunities in Rockville and have spill-over economic benefits for the City.

Please indicate here [X] yes or [] no whether or not the City may give elected officials who serve Rockville (other than the Mayor and Council) your name and address. This information would not be used for any fund-raising, "issues" mailings or campaign mailings. No phone numbers will be given.

Resume for Art Stigile

Rockville, MD 20852

Education: MA and BA, Political Science, University of DelawareWork History:

OMB: 1984-1989; 1990-Present, Budget Review Division

Currently Chief of the Budget Concepts Branch, which sets the government-wide standards for budget formulation, budget structure, and budget reporting. Lead analyst for budget concepts, Budget Enforcement Act scoring, budget process, trust funds, credit programs, and modeling discretionary programs. Numerous awards.

GAO: 1989-1990, Assistant Director, Budget Issues Group

Designed, built, and managed most of the database that formed the underpinning for The Budget Deficit: Outlook, Implications, and Choices and contributed substantially to the written analysis. This was one of the Comptroller General's highest-priority projects and was viewed widely within GAO as a very successful and important GAO publication.

National Economic Commission: 1988-1989, detailed from OMB

Received Special Act Award for developing a spreadsheet-based model, known as the "NEC Deficit Reduction Game," which allowed Commissioners to develop their own deficit reduction packages and instantly see the deficit impact for the budget year and the subsequent four years. This was a major innovation because, at the time, a person needed access to OMB or CBO staff in order to prepare estimates for a deficit reduction package. In a July 6, 1988 column in the Washington Post, David Broder called my PC (meaning the Game) "the most important piece of nonmilitary machinery in Washington," and Rudy Penner, former CBO Director, said "the game was one of the most useful tools that emerged from the National Economic Commission."

Involvement with Asian Government Officials:

1. May 2000. One of two U.S. presenters at a week-long Workshop on the U.S. Federal Budget System for the Chinese Ministry of Finance (MOF) in Shanghai, China. Sponsored by the World Bank and under the direction of Wang Weixing, Deputy General Director of MOF. At the time, Mr. Wang was leading the MOF's budget reform efforts.
2. October 2001. Worked with the State Department to arrange internships in State Government budget offices for six staff from provincial offices of the Chinese Ministry of Finance and federal agency internships for two staff from the Beijing office of the Ministry of Finance. This implemented my suggestion to Mr. Wang at the 2000 Workshop.
3. May 2004. Presenter, Symposium on China's New Budget Law, jointly sponsored by the Budget Affairs Commission of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress of China and the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Technische Zusammenarbeit, Chengdu, China. Invited by Wang Dacheng, Vice-Chairman of the Budget Affairs Commission to be the U.S. Representative at the symposium, to speak about the U.S. Federal Budget System and how it might apply to China's situation. Spoke about the division of labor between the Executive and Congress, the budget resolution, appropriations and authorizations, and the BEA. With other presenters from other countries, compiled list of recommendations for the Budget Issues Group.

4. November 2002 (Singapore) and November 2003 (Thailand). U.S. Representative at the first two Senior Asian Budget Officials Conferences, which were organized by the OECD. Also was a round table presenter at a workshop for the Thailand Ministry of Finance (2003) on budget formulation.
5. May 2006. Presenter at a Workshop on Budget Supervision in Beijing, China. This was sponsored by the Yale University Law School, which funds a project to promote the adaption of democratic principles into the Chinese system. The focus of the Workshop was increasing control over the budget by the Chinese Legislative Branch, which currently has almost no role in the budget process. My paper on "Budget Accounts" sparked several subsequent efforts to get Party approval for an experiment.
6. May 2006. Presented a lecture on the U.S. Federal budget system at Jinhua Normal University in Zhejiang Province, China. This was attended by several hundred students and professors. I'm told that several bus loads of students from nearby universities were turned away due to space constraints.
7. May 2008 (tentative). Presenter at a Workshop on Budget Accounts in Shanghai, China. This would be a follow-on to my presentation at the May 2006 Workshop. It appears that the Municipal Government of Shanghai, which is China's largest city, will be allowed to experiment with using budget accounts.

Other Asian Interests:

Member of the Yellow River Arts Ensemble, which is a group of local Chinese artists who present song and dance at public performances throughout the D.C area. In 2004, I arranged for the Ensemble to perform at the Asian Pacific American Celebration for the Executive Office of the President.

Volunteer tax preparer at the Chinese Church in Washington, DC, for Community Tax Aid, 2001-2006.
